

TINKHAM EXPLAINS DISTRICT MEASURES TO D. C. FEDERATION

Indorses Half-and-Half Fiscal Plan as Best Possible Arrangement.

SEWERAGE BILL APPROVED

Confidence that the present Congress will be guided solely by the best interests of Washington in legislating on fiscal relations between the District and Federal Government was voiced by Congressman Tinkham at last night's meeting of the Federation of Citizens' Associations.

Congressman Tinkham lined up with the friends of the half-and-half plan, stating that he believed it to be the arrangement best designed to "make Washington what every American desires as the Capital of the nation."

Among the bills which Mr. Tinkham praised were the juvenile court bill, recently passed by the House, the bill to establish an institution and school for the feeble-minded, and the bill introduced by him for the establishment of civil service in the District government.

Approves Sewer Bill.

The federation last night approved the long named bill with the amendment that provisions be made solely on merit and not on examination, as the bill at present provides.

Mr. Tinkham also commended the bill to expedite municipal court procedure. He announced that tomorrow he will introduce a bill preventing the collection of assessments in street condemnation cases until the improvements have actually been made, and predicted almost certain passage of the measure.

The federation approved the bill to authorize reciprocal sewerage arrangements between the District and the State of Maryland.

The meeting last night was enlivened by verbal tilts between C. C. Lancaster and E. W. Oyster, who made a motion requiring the true consideration to be stated in deeds transferring land in the District. The federation, after long discussion, approved the measure.

The plan to put crossing policemen on the metropolitan police force was approved. William McK. Clayton called attention to the necessity for this step in justice to the crossing policemen, and cited the Inpolito case as an instance of the hardship worked by the present system.

On Tax Measures.

A resolution of the Southeast Washington Citizens' Association favoring the dredging of the Potomac river and the Anacostia river as far as the navy yard was approved.

Recommendations from the committee of finance and legislation presented by Charles S. Shreve, Jr., chairman, in favor of the Johnson bill to designate parcels of land for taxation purposes, and to establish a separate board for tax appeals and assessment, were adopted, as was also the plan to move the Botanic Garden north of Military road, near the Walter Reed Hospital.

The question of suffrage for the District was postponed until the June meeting, at which time it will be the first order of the agenda.

INDOOR RIFLE RANGE BEING BUILT HERE

Course Under Poll's Theater Will Be Ready for Capital Clubs on May 15.

By May 15 the members of local rifle clubs will be provided with one of the best indoor ranges in the United States.

The range, which is being constructed under Poll's Theater in the old Washington Light Infantry Armory, is rapidly nearing completion. All that remains to be done is the installation of target carriers, and already many of the ranges are in place.

The range is provided with twenty targets, and since the order banishing women members of rifle clubs from the Winthrop range, special accommodations for women shots are being provided in the new range.

Plans Made for Women.
Major Fred H. Phillips, Jr., of the National Rifle Association, said yesterday that special targets will be assigned to the women, and everything possible done to provide them with an adequate range for rifle practice.

A gallery for revolver work has also been installed at the new range. This gallery will be used principally by members of the police force.

Another indoor range is now in process of construction under the Eastern Market at Seventh and C streets southeast. This also will be ready for use in a few weeks.

According to figures just published by Capt. W. C. Harlow, of the Marine Corps, instructor of civilian rifle practice, more marksmen have been qualified on the local ranges in Washington and at Winthrop during 1916 than were qualified in the entire United States during 1914.

New Target Courses.
A new set of target courses have been tentatively adopted by the National Rifle Association. An announcement concerning this provides:

Any rifle may be used. Krag rifles and ammunition are furnished by the Government.

Any kind of sight, peep, open, or telescopic may be used. The use of the peep sight is recommended.

Coaching is permitted. There will be a coach at each firing point at Winthrop.

Each course may be repeated as often as is desired. Qualifying scores are to advance to the next course. The names of those who qualify are recorded in the War Department (national board for promotion of rifle practice), and are furnished the local newspapers.

Decorations Provided.
Decorations will be awarded to those who qualify as expert riflemen.

Target "B" is used for all firing. Hits in the bullseye count 5; the white disk marks a 4; the red a 3; the black a 2. A miss is indicated by waving a red flag. Hits on the wrong target count as misses.

(The instructor will illustrate on an actual target with disks, the method of marking, the use of spotters and the meaning of the expression "o'clock.")

In slow fire the target is marked after each shot, and a spotter indicates the exact location of the hit.

In magazine fire the target is exposed 30 seconds. Five shots are fired during the exposure. If there are more than five hits on the target the score is not recorded and another string is fired.

(The expression "rapid fire" is no longer used, because the idea is to fire deliberately instead of rapidly.)

Marksmen Course.
Marksmen course—Fired at 200 yards. No rest is used. Slow fire. Five shots prone, five kneeling, five squatting, five standing; total, twenty shots. Magazine fire, five shots prone, five kneeling, five squatting, five standing; total, twenty shots. Necessary to qualify, an aggregate score of 150 or total score in magazine fire of 75.

Sharpshooter Course.
Sharpshooter course—Arm, hand or rifle must touch post or parapet. Slow fire; 200 yards, five shots standing from trench; 300 yards, five kneeling from trench; 400 yards, five sitting or squatting from trench; 500 yards, five prone from trench; total twenty shots. Then one skirmish run of twenty shots. Necessary to qualify, an aggregate score of 150 or a total score on skirmish of 75. On ranges where posts and parapets are not provided the firing may be from the prescribed positions without the tests.

The skirmish begins at 500 yards. Five shots fired at each of above distances and positions. Targets exposed thirty seconds for each range and down one and a half minutes for each advance. All advances are at double time. A coach accompanied each skirmish. Score taken at end of run. If there are more than twenty hits on target, run must be repeated.

Sharpshooter Course.
Range open for sharpshooter course at Winthrop only on Saturdays. Those who are marksmen are expected to come any Saturday without any further assignment or notice.

Expert Rifleman Course—Fired at 500 yards. No rest used. Slow fire. Five shots prone, five kneeling, five squatting, five sitting; total, twenty shots. Then four strings of changing position fire of five shots each. Necessary to qualify, an aggregate score of 150 or a total score of 70 on changing positions fire.

Changing positions fire—Target up five seconds, down five seconds. One shot at each exposure. Sequence of positions for each string—prone, kneeling, squatting, kneeling, prone.

Marriage to Phila. Girl Sacrificed His Ambition

LONDON, May 7.—The late Sir Gerard Lowther would have liked to extend his wide diplomatic experience by a period as ambassador in Washington, but there is an interesting foreign office rule not to appoint an ambassador to a country of which his wife is a native.

Sir Gerard's wife was Miss Alice Blight, of Philadelphia, daughter of Atherton Blight, whom he met when he was first secretary at Washington. Sir Gerard served in China, India, Africa, Bucharest, Tokyo, Budapest and Tangier before he went to Constantinople in 1909.

THREE MEASURES TO PASS DURING WEEK

Military Bill, Rural Credits, and Good Roads to Be Enacted.

Congressional leaders expect this week will bring the most important legislation of the session. They expect to see these measures become law:

The military bill, first of preparedness measures.

The rural credits bill, already passed by the Senate.

The Shackleford-Bankhead good roads bill.

It is quite possible, too, that the House may pass the ship purchase bill, and that the Senate may complete the river and harbor bill.

Despite all its other work, there are indications, too, that the Senate may dispose of the Brandeis and Rubles appointments, and adopt a closure rule, limiting debate.

Tomorrow the House will instruct its conferees on the nitrate plant and "Federal reserve" provisions of the army bill.

Senator Smith, father of the nitrate provision, declares that fears of House conservatives that this was a new disguise for the Muscle Shoals project, have been allayed by President Wilson's endorsement and the recommendations of Senators Hastings, Kenyon and Flanders. He predicts its easy passage.

A harder fight is expected on the Federal reserve provision. Leaders say that the easing of the foreign situation will probably make harder the success of big army measures.

In the House only six hours debate will be given to rural credits. The bill which apparently is assured of passage is only slightly different from the Senate measure. Little difficulty is foreseen by members of either House in the conference.

Republicans from Eastern States have found few supporters for their filibuster against the Shackleford good roads bill. Its passage, with many Republican votes, is predicted for tomorrow.

Senator Kenyon announces that he will fight the $1,000,000 river and harbor bill as determinedly as he did a similar measure last session—when he and Senator Burton of Ohio led a successful filibuster. It is full of the most impracticable and extravagant propositions, he said. An item to dredge New York harbor to a depth so that battleships may reach the Brooklyn navy yard was beaten despite President Wilson's personal efforts.

Please Don't Feed Birds;
Gives Them Liver Trouble

SALEM, Ohio, May 7.—Declaring that it is not only an unnecessary procedure on the part of people to feed birds in the winter time, but that it is all a mistake, and that instead of its being a benefit to them, it is really a detriment to their health, H. W. Welser, naturalist, presented an entirely new thought to bird students in an address at an Arbor day celebration here last night.

Birds, supplied with fat from the food they eat in the summer, live through stormy winters without much food, Mr. Welser told his audience. Birds are often perverted and die of diseased liver.
